Notice of Data Security Incident – Lavigne Plaza, LLC, Mandeville, LA

Lavigne Plaza, L.L.C. (“Lavigne”) was informed on March 30, 2017 that its car wash and oil change/lube facility point-of-sale system experienced an intrusion during the month of February 2017. All software and hardware associated with Lavigne’s point-of-sale system is maintained and supported by a third party platform provider, DRB Systems (“DRB”), and this provider experienced the intrusion. Lavigne has been advised by DRB that the intrusion was limited to its car wash and oil change/lube facility point-of-sale system and that the Shell Station point-of-sale system was not intruded.

To date, DRB’s investigation indicates that the intruder placed malware on the car wash and oil change/lube facility point-of-sale system, and by doing so gained access to Lavigne customers’ payment card data, including the cardholder’s first and last name, payment card number, and security code.

If you used a payment card at our Mandeville, LA location at the car wash and oil change/lube facility between the dates of February 6, 2017 and February 23, 2017, your payment card information may be at risk. Because DRB and Lavigne are unable to determine contact information for each customer whose information may be at risk, we are notifying our customers of this risk in this Substitute Notice.

What information was involved?

For those customers who used a payment card between the dates of February 6, 2017 and February 23, 2017, the information the intruder had access to includes, without limitation, the cardholder’s first and last name, card number and security code.

What are we doing?

DRB has represented to Lavigne that DRB removed the malware from Lavigne’s systems and DRB is actively monitoring the platform to safeguard personal information.
